An ancient map of Fairyland : newly discovered and set forth : [imaginary locality]

The Geography and Map Division of the Library of Congress provides cartographic and geographic information for all parts of the world to Congress, federal agencies, state and local governments, the scholarly community, and the general public. Experienced staff of reference librarians, specialists, and technicians link researchers to the largest and most comprehensive public cartographic collection in the world. This tour will describe the history of the reading room, discuss services and resources available, explore the vast stacks areas of the division, and display selected rare and unique items from the collections that highlight a wide range of cartographic formats and subjects.

Doors open for this special networking edition of Great Escapes at 9:30 a.m. for refreshments. There will be two tour groups: one departing at 9:55 a.m. and another departing at 10:55 a.m. Space is limited, so register early to reserve your spot. There will be opportunities for networking before and after your tour.
